DOTTIE RAMBO NOMINATED FOR DOVE AWARD

NASHVILLE, Tennessee (February 26, 2012) – Almost four years after her home-going, Dottie Rambo has been honored with a nomination for a Dove Award in the category of Bluegrass Recorded Song Of The Year for her composition “Mama’s Teaching Angels How To Sing” as recorded by The Isaacs on their project Naturally.

Rambo McGuire has also been nominated for a Dove Award in the category of Bluegrass Album Of The Year for their project, Grassroots Rambos. This CD is first in a series “Remembering The Rambos” by Dony, Reba, Destiny and Israel with special guest, Buck Rambo, and celebrates the early mountain style of The Rambos and the timeless songs of Dottie Rambo.

Reba states, “We are thrilled for Rambo McGuire to receive this recognition as artists. Grassroots Rambos is a project so near and dear to our hearts as it reflects our family’s rich musical heritage and carries on the legacy.”

Produced by the Gospel Music Association \(GMA\), the 43rd Annual Dove Awards will take place on April 19 at The Fox Theatre in Atlanta, GA, and can be viewed on Gospel Music Channel (GMC). To see the entire list of nominees, click HERE.
